ROBIN GREENFIELD

“The Robin Hood of Modern Times” – France 2

Robin Greenfield is a truth-seeker, activist, social reformer and servant to Earth, humanity and the plants and animals we share our home with. At the heart of Robin’s action-based philosophy is his dedication to living simply and sustainably as a means of resistance to systems of oppression.

Robin’s public activism involves dramatic gestures designed to reach the mainstream and to provoke critical thought, self-reflection and positive change. His message stimulates nuanced conversations on the critical issues of our time, with a focus on solutions for living in harmony. His activism has been covered by media worldwide and he has been named “The Robin Hood of Modern Times” by France 2 TV and “The Forrest Gump of Ecology”.

Robin has given 3 TEDx talks, at TEDxTeen in London, TEDxIHEParis in Paris and at TEDxUCLA in Los Angeles. He has spoken at over 150 events to nearly 20,000 people. Venues range from large corporations to small businesses, universities to elementary schools, large cities to rural villages, municipal organizations, nonprofits, and more.

Above all else in his speaking, Robin aims to inspire. This inspiration often is felt so strongly by audience members that they immediately commit to making changes to live in higher integrity and they follow through.

Robin donates 100% of his media earnings to grassroots nonprofits, with a focus on supporting Black and Indigenous women-led organizations.
